

8 Unique Wines to Try This Fall

By Kristine Hansen | October 18, 2017 | Wine

ANTHILIA

When it comes to fall, there's nothing wrong with Chardonnay and Cabernet Sauvignon—two of the most widely recognized wine varietals with plantings around the world—but there are niche wines worth exploring, too. From Furmint and Muscat in Hungary to Catarratto grapes in Sicily, here are some suggestions.